"Days" Being Observed Lead To Belief Huge Crowd Coming.

BABY CONTEST WARM

Hot Springs Man Elected To Head State Poultry Association.

LITTLE ROCK, October 10.—(AP)—With crisp fall weather continuing, indications point to a record attendance at the Arkansas State Fair here today. Many business houses are observing a half-holiday to enable their employes to attend the exposition.

"Days" being observed include G. A. R. day, and Missouri Pacific day. Judging of babies and the baby health clinic were scheduled to be among features for the afternoon. Judging of agricultural exhibits as well as other products are progressing rapidly.

I. A. Lloyd, of Hot Springs, was elected president of the State Poultry Association at its annual meeting at the Fair Grounds. About 50 were in attendance, the balloting for officers being by mail.

The two-day program of auto racing begins tomorrow. The day will also be children's day, the schools in Little Rock and North Little Rock closing for the occasion.

"Flapper's" Status Is Still In Doubt

Tennessee Teacher Center of Storm Because of Modern Methods.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Knox county Board of Education, besieged for six weeks by petitions to dismiss, to retain and to transfer Miss Mildred Doyle county school principal, accused of being a "flapper," vainly debated proposals to transfer her today.

A. W. Mays, board member, suggested the transfer. Two members said if that were done they would insist that a parent-teacher association's demand for a "male principal of high Christian morals" be satisfied. Inquiry revealed that no such man was available and the board delayed action until Monday.

California Family Has Never Seen Automobile

MODESTO, Cal., Oct. 10. California, the state which boasts one automobile to every family and two for most, has at least one family of six children that never has seen an automobile.

That is the story told here by Wesley and Ernest Hewitt, members of a local automobile firm, after a deer hunt in Mendocino county's wilds.

The two Modestans went so far back into the timberland of the northern county that they had to leave the roads and use packhorses.

At the end of their journey, they found a mountain family with whom they boarded. The six children of the family, the Modestans said, tramped five miles daily to school, had never seen an automobile except in pictures, had never witnessed a "movie" nor heard a radio.

The hunters said the family lived among an abundance of food. Meals served comprised 18 different foods grown or killed near the mountain cabin, they said.

Kiwanis Meeting Is 'Peppy' Affair

Weltman and Rhodes Go As Delegates To District Convention.

The regular weekly luncheon of Kiwanis today was one of the most enthusiastic in the history of the club's life here. Chap Weltman and Thurman Rhodes, delegates to the district convention at Hot Springs next week, reported themselves ready to get on the job and aid in the work of putting Hope Kiwanians on the map.

One of the questions brought up was the Kiwanis minstrel, slated for presentation soon. Committees reported they had looked over the situation and the time was ripe and active preparation for the event will be started without delay.

Attorney General Upholds Auditor

Norwood Says Legislators Are Barred From Other State Jobs.

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Attorney General Hal L. Norwood issued an opinion yesterday that members of the legislature cannot be employed in any capacity by any executive or judicial department. Such employment would be in violation of both the letter and spirit of the constitution and laws of the state, he said.

"The Legislative Department is of most important of the three departments of the state government and several provisions of the constitution clearly indicate that it was the intention that our laws should be made by persons absolutely free from any connection with or obligation to any executive or judicial department," the opinion said. "If the Highway Department for instance, the largest executive department in the state, were permitted to employ members of the legislature to work for it, it would be possible to have a General Assembly composed entirely of employes of that department who might obtain a leave of absence from the department during a session of the legislature."

State Auditor J. Oscar Humphrey recently refused to issue warrants on vouchers presented by the state Revenue Department for compensation of two members of the legislature for services in connection with collection of the state income tax.

Carlisle Youngster, 15, Is Proud Owner of State's Best.

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 10. When Oscar Banshof, aged 15, of Carlisle, arrived at the Arkansas State Fair Sunday with a Jersey cow he intended entering in the prize contest, he was hopeful that he would receive some mention. Monday morning his hopes fell to the ground, but Tuesday he was soaring the heights, as his "Spotted Owl's Johanna," 781636, had been selected grand champion female of all the Jersey cows entered in all

Recovers Brooch She Lost At Game

Woman In Next Box Had Picked Up Valuable Ornament.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—(AP)—A Costly diamond broach fell unnoticed from the dress of Mrs. Stanley Field as she jostled her way through the crowd at the gate of Wrigley Field to attend yesterday's world series ball game.

Mrs. Field discovered her loss after entering her box, and told a companion. A woman in the next box overheard and ask Mrs. Field what kind of a broach it was. Mrs. Field described it, and the woman handed her the proach.

Out of 50,000 persons in the park, the brooch had been picked up by one of the few persons within earshot of Mrs. Field's voice.

Lobby Probers To Call Grundy First

Senator Caraway Calls Meeting of Committee To Make Plans.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. (AP)—Joseph R. Grundy, Washington representative of the American Tariff League, was named yesterday by Chairman Caraway of the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee as probably the first witness to be summoned.

Senator Caraway has called a meeting of the committee of five for Thursday to adopt a program. However, it is not likely that the hearings will be opened before next week.

Grundy, who is president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, has been in Washington almost continuously since the House Ways and Means Committee started to frame a tariff measure last winter.

He has been in the gallery much of the time while the tariff has been before the Senate and has heard himself frequently referred to by the foes of the bill on the floor as the sponsor of various items in the measure.

Little Rock Men Held for Assault On 4-H Club Girls

Prosecutor Orders Men Held Without Bond Pending Investigation.

STORY IS VERIFIED

Girl's Clothing and Shoes Found In Apartment Men Occupied.

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 10.—(AP)—James E. Cabe, drug store owner and Allen Frey, also a druggist, were held without bond in the city jail today after police had investigated the stories of two girls from Sebastian county that the men had forced them into a car at the State Fair grounds and taken them to the men's apartments where they assaulted them.

The girls told police the two men accosted them at the fair grounds, later forcing them into an automobile. They said both the men were drunk.

Police were quoted as saying the girls told them the men became ill and they were able to effect their escape from the room, but only after the assaults had been committed. A patrolman found them on the grounds of the capitol building, their clothes disheveled and the shoes of one of them missing. Officers sent to the apartment where the alleged assault occurred reported they found there clothing of the girls and the shoes of one of them.

Deputy prosecuting attorney Carl E. Bailey was called out of bed to investigate the affair and ordered both men held without bond.

'Polar Bear' Dead Are Coming Home

Boys of the A. E. F. Who Died In Arctic Being Brought Back.

LENINGRAD, U. S. S. R., Oct. 10.—(AP)—The bodies of 86 men of the "Polar Bear" division of the A. E. F., who fought north of the Artic Circle, near Archangel in 1918-19, rested here today, prior to being sent to the United States for interment on American soil.

An American Graves Commission, headed by Edwin S. Bettleheim, brought the bodies in yesterday from Murmansk, in the far north by the White Sea, where they were disinterred. The Soviet government furnished a special train for the trip.

Each body was placed in a hermetically sealed coffin, wrapped in the United States flag. The corpses were placed aboard a steamer here for Havre, France, from where they will be convoyed with highest honors by an American warship to the United States.

One Dead, One Hurt, When Plane Hurtles To Earth.

GUYMON, Okla., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Shattered by a premature explosion by a bomb during a stunt flight at the county fair here, an airplane crashed to the ground from an altitude of 500 feet late yesterday, killing Jimmy Bethel, 30, St. Joseph Mo., and dangerously injuring John Nooman, Guymon, the pilot.

Bethel, an aerial stunt performer released a five-second bomb from the front cock-pit of the plane. It failed to clear the plane and exploded. One wing was blown off and the plane shot earthward.

Local Postoffice Sets New Record

Quarter Ending In September Is Best In Its History.

Postal receipts at the Hope postoffice set a new high record for the three months ending in September, Postmaster J. A. Davis announced today.

Exclusive of the money order business, postal receipts for the period were $7,320.34, as compared to $6,452.95 for the same three months in 1928 and 6,713.11 in 1927.

On the showing thus far it is almost certain that the local office will close the year with receipts in excess of $30,000—the highest annual mark in its history.

R. P. Fuller, of near Emmett, is loser the middle finger on his right hand as result of an accident at Fuller's gin Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Fuller reached his hand into the gin stand at the end of the stand to remove dirty cotton gathered there and in some way his finger came in contact with the saw. Just how it happened Mr. Fuller is still trying to figure out.

For a matter of years the victim of yesterday's accident has been engaged in gin work, the past four years at the gin where he was injured, and this is the first time he ever had anything resembling an accident.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Judge Wm. Hitz today recessed the bribery trial of Albert B. Fall until Friday morning, after a physician appointed by the court had reported that his examination of Fall was not completed.

The report indicated the former Interior Secretary was unable to be up and probably could not stand trial at this time.

Part of Texas Oil Field Is Sinking

No Explanation of Phenomena Thougph Geologists Are Studying It.

BEAUMONT, Tex., Oct. 10.—(AP)—The sinking of earth over an area 150 feet by 150 feet in the Sour Lake oil field, two miles from Sour Lake, Tex., caused oil men to become apprensive of consequences in that field Wednesday.

The depression was first noticed Tuesday when it covered only a small area. It continued to enlarge during the night, however, and Wednesday had covered the area of a town lot. The depth of the depression had not been measured, due to the hole filling up with water. Trees of medium size visible, Tuesday, however, had disappeared Wednesday. Some observers placed the depth from 50 to 100 feet.

Large cracks were reported forming on the outer edge of the affected area. The area is in an old field which had produced oil for about 25 years. The nearest well was 75 feet way.

Wells in a nearby field have been variously affected. No. 1 H M. Perry, completed Saturday with a daily flow of 150 barrels of oil, started flowing salt water soon after the depression was discovered. Other wells were reported to have increased their flow.

Geologists could give no reason for the phenomena, since no gas wells were located in the field. Blasting in a nearby vicinity was advanced as a possible solution.

Communist Theory Enters Trial of Striking Workers

Jury Excused As State and Defense Wrangle Over Testimony.

GIRL IS QUESTIONED

Admits Labor Defense Paying for Her Board and Lodging.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 10.—(AP)—The trial of seven labor leaders on a murder charge in connection with the death of O. F. Aderholt, Gastonia police chief, in June last, was halted temporarily today while state and defense wrangled over whether or not the question of Communism should be injected into the case.

The argument arose over a question asked by the state of 20-year-old Katie Corley who testified that she was being fed by the International Labor Defense. The state asked if the organization was not connected with the Communist party and the defense immediately objected.

Judge Barnhill presiding excused the jury while he heard argument, but postponed his decision until after reading the cases presented, including the Sacco-Vanzetti decision.

Borger Grand Juror Told To Leave Town

Is One of Number of Threats Made By Oil Field Gangsters.

BORGER, Texas, Oct. 10.—It all of the threats which have been made in connection with the institution of martial law in Hutchinson county were carried out there would be plenty of excitement in this now quiet little oil town.

The life of the governor of the state was threatened in a note warning the chief executive to "keep his nose out of Borger."

Later the life of a district judge here was placed in similar "jeopardy" by the receipt of a playing card, the "ace" of spades—an underworld symbolism meaning "death."

And Wednesday the "threat gang" continued it's activity.

"We don't figure you lost anything in Borger and are not needed in "Texas," was the poorly writ-

Three Die When Trains Collide

Head-On Collision Takes Lives of Three Trainmen.

PORTAGE, Pa., Oct. 10.—(AP)—An eastern-bound passenger train and a west-bound freight crashed head-on just west of the Pennsylvania passenger station here last last night, killing three members of the trains' crews.

The wreck occurred, officials said, when the trains met as a freight was pulling out of a siding, switching from the east to the westbound tracks. Cause and responsibility for the crash have not been fixed, officials said.

The two locomotives were telescoped and two express cars left the rals while eight or ten freight cars were thrown off the tracks. None of the passengers were hurt.

Police pronounced Wilson a suicide. They said he returned to his home some time this morning while his distracted wife and son pressed a search for him and started the engine of one of his cars about seven o'clock. The body was discovered by Harry Wilson, the dead man's 22-year-old son.

Police and members of the family declined to discuss any possible motvie for the suicide.

Mathews Reports On Highway Fund

Member State Highway Body Outlines Situation

In Letter To Talbot Feild, Mr. Matthews Gives Out Some Interesting Information Concerning County Road Matters.

FOUR-YEAR PROGRAM OUTLINED

Statement Covers Entire Period Since Martineau Act Became Effective and Is In Reply To Query From Local Chamber of Commerce Member.

The first official statement on expenditure of State Highway Department funds in Hempstead county over the entire period of the Martineau act, is contained in a letter from Commissioner Justin Matthews to Talbot Feild, secretary of the good roads committee of Hope Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Matthews letter follows:

"I enclose herewith statement showing Hempstead county's allotment, bonds assumed, turnback to county court, and work done to date.

"You will note that the total allotment to Hempstead county is $1,791,238.05. This is a four-year program in which we are to reach parity. The last of the parity period will be March 1, 1931. Hempstead county should receive three-fourths of her total allotment by March 1, 1930. In other words, there should be left one-fourth to be spent in the last year, which begins March 1, 1930, and ends March 1, 1931 and one-fourth of your total allotment is $447,-809.51. You will note that Hempstead county has only a net balance of $554,376.39 yet to be expended or just about one hundred thousand above what we should have to the credit of Hempstead county on March 1, 1930.

Must Aid General Fund

"Hempstead county will perhaps have to contribute about a hundred or a hundred and fifty thousand to a general fund to help secure a continuity of roads, if same is available after No. 67 is taken care of, for we have a lot of places in the state that counties of over a million and a quarter allotment will have to help out in. Those contributing greatest to this fund will be Pulaski, Union, Sebastian, Jefferson, etc.

"The first thing we must do in Hempstead county, however, as I stated to you, is to grade No. 67 and pave same. On the pavement itself, out of the general fund the state will pay half. There doesn't seem to be anything charged to street paving in Hempstead county on this statement. It may be that no certificates of indebtedness have been issued yet. Yours very sincerely, JUSTIN MATTHEWS."

The four-year parity program in Hempstead county, March 1, 1927, to March 1, 1931, is outlined by Mr. Matthews as follows:

Colorado Banker Draws Long Term

Waggoner Given 15 Years for Trimming New York Banks.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Chas. DeLos Waggoner, Telluride, Col., bank president was senteneed to 15 years imprisonment today on his plea of guilty to mail fraud in connection with a scheme to obtain $500,000 from six New York banks by means of forged authorization papers.

Waggoner's excuse was that the bottom had dropped out of things in Telluride and that to protect those who had deposited money in his bank he fleeced New York bankers, asserting they were better able to lose than the workingmen of the mining district.

Witnesses had been assembled from as far away as the west coast for the trial, but when the case was called defense counsel entered a plea of guilty. United States Attorney Chas. H. Tuttle then moved for immediate imposition of sentence and the banker was given a 15-year term in the Atlanta penitentiary.

The banker told Federal investigators that he hoped to use the half million dollars which he secured to pay to depositors in his Telluride institution which was on the verge of going on the rocks.

Young Jimmy Foxx provided the punch that enabled the Athletics to win the opening game of the world series. He is shown here crossing the plate, after his home run in the seventh scored the first run of the series. Bing Miller is waiting to congratulate him. Below Charlie Grimm, Chicago first baseman, is shown making a futile slide into second in the fourth inning on an attempted steal. Grimm is shown protesting the decision as Bishop tagged him.

Calls In City Where Was Ill for Weeks Few Years Ago.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 10.—(AP)—J. Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of Great Britain, came to Philadelphia today in his private capacity to meet old friends and greet those who ministered to him when he was ill here three weeks some two years ago.

Mr. MacDonald, on his way from Washington to New York with his daughter and other members of his party, arrived shortly before noon. The party was met by reception committee.

Prohibition Wins Great Victory In Dripping Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—(AP)—When a flag was run up to the top of the new Board of Trade building today it signalled, in addition to the fact that the last steel beam was in place, the victory of a tee-totaler.

Yesterday the workmen notified Henry A. Rumsey, chairman of the Buliding Committee, that they were ready for the flag-raising ceremony. But first, they said, they must have the usual round of drinks to toast completion of their labors.

Rumsey, strict prohibitionist, offered coffee and sandwiches, but said "nay, nay" in answer to the request for liquor.

"No drinks no flag raising," said the workmen. 'We want no weak-kneed christening."

Both sides stood their ground. Today Rumsey called the workmen around him and told of his engineering a $2,500 widow's fund for the families of two who had been killed while laboring on the new structure.

"If you persist in your present attitude, I will take no further steps in your behalf," he told them.

Sheepishly the men clambered to the top of the great steel skeleton, and the flag spread its folds in the breeze.

Endurance Fever Rages In Tennessee's Big Town

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 10.—Memphis has a plague of endurance contests.

No sooner had an 108-hour bicycle riding contest ended than two young men started out on a non-stop refueling gum chewing endurance contest. They gave up for sleep after 14 hours of continuous jaw motion.

Then Evelyn Walker, 15, started her non-talking contest, and set a date 24 hours away as the time for breaking silence.

Murphy Gray, a typist, was confident he had done something or other after pounding a typewriter for 3 hours, with a total of nearly half a million words.

And then, just as it appeared the endurance contest germ had been routed, a group of boys started out in pursuit of the 108-hour bicycle riding record.

Ordaining Catholic Priests in Mexico

Fleet of Fast Radio-Fitted Cruisers Bolsters Chicago's War on Crime

Guns, Bombs and Radio Receiving Sets Aids to Windy City Police.

NOTICE was served on Chicago gunmen the middle of September that they may expect to be harassed considerably in their mode and manner of gaining a livelihood. The notice bore the signature of the Chicago police department. It took a tri-motored, all-metal Ford air transport and seventeen especially-equipped Lincoln motor cars to convey the message to gangdom.

Already appreciably embarrassed in their nefarious undertakings by a fleet of radio-equipped Ford cruisers, those Chicagoans who are wont to depend on lawlessness for their daily bread are now discovering their methods still further hampered by an additional fleet of seventeen swift Lincoln cruisers in which special officers literally sweep through the city many times a day, removing suspicious characters from communion with more law-abiding citizenry and throwing a more acute fear of detection into any who may be contemplating open violation of the law.

Gun Racks Formidable

It is not only that this new addition to the city's machinery for crime prevention is somewhat awesome to look at the fleet, touring bodies glinting their defiance by their brilliant orange color, by their formidable gun-racks with guns visible to all and in position for instantaneous use when needed or by the flashing word "Police!" appearing a total of six times on each car.

There is also something uncanny —unreachable—beyond the power of criminals to destroy about these cars. Within the body of each Lincoln is a radio receiving set by means of which occupants of the car are in constant touch with the department's central radio sending station. The instant that word of disorder anywhere in the city is flashed to headquarters, that instant seventeen carloads of cruising police officers in all parts of the city also are informed of the outbreak. As a result minutes, hours, often days, weeks and months are lopped off the time previously needed for detection, pursuit and arrest of guilty offenders. In this speeding up of arrival on the scene of any crime, officers assigned to the Lincoln fleet are supplemented by brother officers in radio-equipped Ford police cars that have been giving such valiant service, not only in Chicago, but in Detroit and other cities, that the super-cruisers were recently ordered and delivered to a detail of plainclothesmen from the detective bureau of the Chicago police department. The officers flew to Detroit, took over the fleet there and drove cross country back to Chicago.

In addition to the radio equipment and the gun racks on the rear of the front seat, the new speedsters have special compartments for carrying tear-gas bombs and other paraphernalia used in the Windy City's warfare against crime.

Easy to Recognize Cars

Provisions are taken for easy recognition of the cars even by occupants of high office buildings; for the word "Police" has been painted even on the top of the car as well as twice on the sides, twice on the hood and once in the rear. Ease of recognition by victims of thugdom is considered of even more importance than the fact that gunmen can spot the cars easily by their color and self-advertisement through the "Police" signs.

The use of special cruising cars equipped with radio has passed beyond the experimental stage, both in Chicago and in Detroit, and authorities in many other cities are studying results of this departure seriously with the thought of adapting a similar service to their own departmental needs.

Bobcat Stars Are Declared Ineligible

Four Members of Squad Ruled Off

Ellis, Plant, Drake and Bacon Not In Tilt With Fordyce.

Four of the Bobcat football squad, delared ineligible, will not be in uniform Friday afternoon when the local eleven goes up against Fordyce in what will unthe year. Ellis, Plant, Drake and doubtedly be the hardest game of Bacon, regarded as four among the best on the team, are the ones who won't be on the playing field.

Ineligibility of these players, it is said, is based entirely on a technicality and efforts are being made to place them again on the eligible list in time, at least, for them to participate in most of the remaining games scheduled.

The loss of these men is a punch almost on the jaw to Coach Coleman. Each of them had had previous experience and are known as heady, consistent players. Their being ruled off leaves Coleman mostly with youngsters on his squad good material, but nearly all of them lacking experience and throws a damper over Bobcat aspirations for the coming season.

Tin Cans Acquitted of Being Poisonous

Tin cans as food containers have been acquitted of charge of being poisonous by modern scientists.

"Although many housewives empty the contents of cans into dishes merely because the food looks better that way," says a writer in a current publication. "Scientific tests have proved that any difference as to safety between food left in an open can and food transferred to a dish for keeping, is in favor of the can.

"In the transfer, the food is exposed to the contamination of the air and handling and is taken from a sterile can and placed in an unsterilized dish. Spoilage is therefore likely to occur more rapidly in the dish than in the can.

"This is particularly true of a food so perishable as milk, and evaporated milk is better protected in its sterile container than in any household dish. With two small holes punched in the top of the can at opposite sides, from which to pour the milk that is needed, it will keep two or three times as long as ordinary milk under the same conditions."

Unsung Heroes

"Stop Cagle!" will be the cry from many of the Army's opponents on the gridiron this fall.

That should be amplified; the shout should be, "Stop Murrell and Cagle!" For, if they don't stop Murrell, there's not a great deal of likelihood of stopping the Redhead.

Which is to say, a star often is no better than his interference, though the man who takes out the defensive players gets little credit. It takes two players to make a star.

Britton took the bad boys out of Red Grange's way. Ed Hill cleared the paths for Ken Strong. Miles dumped them for Wittmer.

Wise coaches know how to take advantage of the enemy's desire to stop a star. Another man is designated to do the running, with the star running his interference. Thus, in the Dartmouth-Harvard game last year, the Crimson concentrated on halting Marsters, and Wolff ran wild. The Army concentrated on halting Garvey of Yale and Loud sprinted all over the place.

Coquettish Mr. Kukauskas

Ringsiders who thought Tommy Loughran goofy after taking one on the Van Dyke from Mr. Kukauskas (Jack Sharkey) the other night, must have lost their wonder in watching the antics of the Great-Eye man from Boston after Lou Magnolia called off the stuff.

Sharkey actually danced a jig in the center of the ring. He took coquettish swings at fat Bittie Johnny Buckley, his manager, and Tony Palozolo, trainer.

Then, to top it all off he flitted around the ring, shadow-boxing smiling at the customers, wheeling, leaping. It was all very beautiful. But it made us wonder if Loughran was the goofiest guy there, after all.

They Hissed Tilden

They hissed Tilden during some of his matches at Newport. In the battle for the national singles championship, parts of the gallery did everything but toss dornicks at him, aroused by what appeared to be his unsportsmanlike tactics.

In behalf of Bib Bill, let it be said that in the 10 years that he has been packing 'em in at tennis battles, it cannot be said that he ever failed to give the fans their money's worth of tennis. He is the greatest showman on the courts. None, except perhaps Red Mac MacLoughlin, has been able to play upon the feelings of tennis galleries as has Tilden. The drama is a part of him, and it shows both on and off the courts.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Victorio Campolo claims to hold the world's record for bulldogging, skinning and dressing a steer 12 minutes. . . . But then, maybe it was a bum steer. . . . Lefty O'Doul says he "wouldn't have hit against left-handers for McGraw," but he has been doing pretty well against 'em for Burt Shotton. . . . Pipgras likes the Cubs to win the serier. . . . Because the A's have trouble hitting a right-hander with good crossfire. . . . Ben Paschal says he like the Athletics. . . . He never has seen the Cubs. . . . Neither have a lot of the other experts. . . . Babe Ruth once asked Harry Frazee of the Red Sox for a raise, saying it cost him a lot to eat. . . . Frazee replied, "You hit the homers and I'll feed you." . . . So Harry gave him a contract for three years at $10,000 a season.

Western Presbyterian Church for Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—A new Western Presbyterian church soon will be built here replacing the historic old one sponsored by President Franklin Pierce and in which President Ulysses S. Grant often worshipped.

The new church, which should not be confused with Abraham Lincoln's New York Avenue Presbyterian church, will be erected at 20th and H streets, directly across from the present edifice. Commencement of construction will mark the 57th anniversary of the original church.

Fighters Ready To Step Tonight

Card for Evening, In the Opinion of Promoter, Is One of Best.

Everything is all set for the show tonight at the Rink when Tex Leavelle, boxing promoter, offers fans in Hope a chance to witness plenty of speed and action, plus willingness to swap wallops with the other fellow.

Who will be on the receiving end of the punch-line is hard to say from this distance as each event will bring two men pretty evenly matched.2 Stacy and Malone, as headliners, are expected to give fans more than their money's worth while it goes without saying that Taylor and Pierce and Celmars and Quillan will be in there for business.

Celmars, by the way, is still grouchy over the result of his scrap with Quillan at Spring Hill when he was slapped to sleep by a wallop landing just above his ear, almost taking the top of his dome off. "Quillan will think it's raining boxing gloves tonight if I get close enough to hit him," the grizzled battler declared this morning. "I get the headache every time I think of that clout I got at Spring Hill and want to hand him a dose of his own medicine."

Leavelle said this morning he had the promise of five small smokes to go in for a battle royal, last on his feet in the ring to get a five dollar bill. However, having had a bit of experience with these battle royal boys, Mr. Leavelle is not guaranteeing that end of the performance.

"But it's going to be a card worth seeing," he said, "one of the best produced here in a long time, and I hope to follow it up with others equally as fast."

California Lumber County Gets Strictly Modern and Puts On Airs

CRESCENT CITY, Cal., Oct. 10—Civilization positively has arrived in Del Norte most isolated of California's hilf-hundred counties.

The Lauff hotel, six stories high, has installed an elevator.

Loggers and woodsmen from the redwood area surrounding Crescent City are trooping into town on paydays, seeing the sights and spending their money and winding up with the supreme thrill of a round-trip six story ride in this new contraption.

Extension and improvement of the Redwood Highway up the coast from Eureka, through Crescent City and on to connection with the paved Pacific highway in Oregon, is bringing hundreds of tourists through beautiful, rugged Del Norte county for the first time.

The Lauff, a modern structure built to accommodate the new throng of visitors, enabled the Oldest Inhabitants of Del Norte to throw out their chests by additional yardage when it installed the first enevator in the entire county.

"Medicine Man" Posions Still Favored By Indians

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 10.—Herbs and plants and strange potions that legend tells were used by Indians for curing all manner of ills still are used by the remaining Redmen in this country.

For three months Huron H. Smith, botanist and Indian authority here, lived with the Oneida Indians in northern Wisconsin to learn first-hand the cure-alls and "good medicine," used by them.

It's milk from the milkweed for warts; ground cherries for eye trouble; and smoke of the tansey plant for a headache, Smtih reported on his return here.

Woman Barber Says Men Not So Cantankerous

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 10.—Opportunity for local males to get barbered by a member of the gentler sex will be offered when Mrs. Zula Arnold, former beauty shop attendant, opens her barber shop here "for men only."

Men, says Mrs. Arnold, are "more generous than women," "less vain" and "not so cantankerous." She believes and is willing to demonstrate that she can give as good a "shave and haircut" as any man.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS . . . By Laufer

At this time of year a certain kind of ball player begins to wonder where he'll play next year. Maybe Newark, maybe the coast, maybe some place in the Central League.

The ranks of these vagabond ball players have been depleted this year of two of the grandest guys you'd care to meet—Lew Fonseca, the singin' Portuguese of the Indians and Lefty (Frank J.) O'Doul of the formerly futile Phillies.

For the closing days of the American League campaign saw the Cleveland first-sacker, with a dislocated shoulder, three or four busted ankles and a spiked and infected knee, clout his way past Al Simmons to the batting leadership of the league.

And Hollywood, Salt Lake, John McGraw and a couple of other towns and people were treated to reading in the public prints that a castoff outfielder in a Phil uniform was batting just .400 to top all the batsmen in the National circuit. McGraw traded O'Doul to the Phils for Leach and cash last year.

There isn't any question of where Lew and Lefty will be commercializing their talents next year. Mr. Fonseca's address is Cleveland; Mr. O'Doul can be reached definitely at Philadelphia.

Fonseca, since he broke in with the San Francisco team, has been sold, traded or given away year after year to this team and that. This year he got into the lineup regularly at Cleveland when First Sacker Hodapp was injured. He banged away all summer, and in the closing days overhauled the leaders in a fine spurt of baseball, finishing up with an average of .369.

Hair Rats Are Gone!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Modern woman, freed of the restraint of long tresses, realizes the comfort and sanitation of the bobbed head. The shears in the hands of AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE have severed the bonds of another archaic dogma.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation-No Cough.

TUNE IN—The Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra, every Saturday night, over a coast-to-coast network of the N. B. C.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

Move To Punish Hooch Buyers

Bishop Cannon Leads In Demand for Quick Action.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—An organied movement to bring about enactment of the Sheppard bill to declare liquor buyers equally guilty with sellers under the prohibition aws already is pressing for attention of members of congress.

Headed by Bishop James Cannon Jr., as chairman, and Eugene L. Crawford, as secretary, the board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has directed a formal appeal to congress for passage of the measure.

The contention of the Association against the Prohibition Amendment that such a proposal, having been excluded deliberately from the eighteenth amendment, congress could not enact ti now as law "without nullyfying the amendment," was countered in the church organization's appeal with the statement:

"The principal reason for exempting the purchaser from punishment in the present Volstead act was the expectation that the testimony of the purchaser would be necessary for the conviction of the seller, but 10 years' experience seems to have demonstrated that better results can be secured in curtailing traffic if the purchaser is also branded as a criminal, eliminating the open flaunting of the law by persons without sense of shame who are willing to show contempt for the effort to promote social betterment merely to indulge their own personal appetite without regard to the constitution of the country."

Purchasers and sellers of liquor, it is contended, "shoul d be held equally guilty by the law as enemies of its home, the school, the church and the state."

An indication of the line which the opposition to the bill probably will follow if it is pressed at the regular beginning in December was given by Senator Hawes, democrat, Missouri.

Holding that "it would put another army of millions of men and women in the lawless class," he contended that, if the scope of the eighteenth amendment were to be extended, "it should be extended by another amendment to the constitution."

Such a move, he suggested, "might be a good thing; it might provide a referendum desired by many."

the divisions.

On top of that, first prize in the heifer class, between two years and three years, which was won before the cow was eligible to the grand champion class, carried it a prize of $10.

Where young Banshof's hopes fell flat was his cow giving birth to a bull calf just at the time she was entered in one class. Of course, it was impossible to enter, but J. E. Terry, county agent of Lonoke county, stepped out Tuesday morning and copped the prize for the youth. At the last report, both mother and son were doing fine.

Banshof was complimented still further when Joe Blondin, manager of the Henderson Dairy Farms at Ruston, La., who attends all the big shows, said the cow was the best two-year-old he had seen this year. She was good enough to win from several of the Henderson entries.

A member of the 4-H Club organization only two years, Banshof has brought credit to it, as his cow won over 11 Jerseys nd several were sent in from other states He bought the cow with a bale of cotton that weighed 600 pounds, another example of the industry of 4-H Club members, and the results of the movement that is rapidly raising farm boys and girls to the class of scientific farmers.

Perils of City Menace Man's Peace of Mind

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 10.—Warily and with many a foreboding Phillips LeClaire left the pine woods in which he had spent most of his life as a lumberjack and came to Milwaukee to the bedside of his sick mother.

Strange tales had been recounted to Phillip of the dangers that lurked amid the bright lights of the city.

For several days the man of the woods sat safely beside his sick mother here and experienced no strange sensations. At last his mother began to recover and Phillip penned three letters to his friends "up north" informing them he soon would be home.

After receiving instructions from his mother Phillip went to the corner to mail the letters. He could find no place in the "mailbox" to put the letters even after he had obeyed instructions to "pull hook down." Soon, however, 10 pieces of fire apparatus drew up at the fair alarm box and it was carefully explained to the innocent Phillip that false fire alarms are costly.

ten message received by a member drawn for the grand jury panel, which meets here Monday to investigate the slaying on September 13 of District Attorney John A. Holmes.

The letter continued: "You are too close in touch with those now in charge at Borger. If you do not leave we know how to make you."

The letter, unsigned, was written on a piece of paper from a Pampa hotel. The name of the man who received it is being withheld while officials investigate.

Wednesday's threat, h owever, like the previous ones, is given little attention, either by the receiver or by military officials, who, for the most part, regard the missives as being the prank of some practical joker or the work of a "crank."

Thus far the "threat gang" has made no attempt to follow up any of its intimidations with any form of action.

Meanwhile Borgerites Wednesday night were awaiting with interest the outcome of the hearing set for Thursday afternoon at Stinnett, which will determine the legality of the much feared "General Order Number 6," the major weapon of Brigadier General Jacob Wolters in his drive against the underworld. The order provides that persons arrested under it may be held in jail until the expiration of martial law.

The test will be made as a result of the obtaining by six persons now being held under the order of a writ of habeas corpus.

Oklahoma Editor Has Expressed Right Idea

The degree of prosperity the country enjoys is gauged by the activities of the great industries. When the steel industry, the automobile industry, and others of that class are prosperous the country is said to be prosperous, just as a community is said to be prosperous when business is good with the merchants of that community. For, after all, prosperity, whether national or local, is a thing that must begin with the people. Future activities of the steel industry depends upon the automobile industry and the automobile manufacturers are optimistic because of higher grain prices, present and prospective. So there you have it. Prosperity springs from the soil. No mater in what form it is manifested, or who seems to have the most of it.—Blackwell (Okla.) Tribune.

Mule Hoofprints Not Enough to Fool Officer

PINE BLUFF, Oct. 10.—It was not fingerprints that proved the downfall of Loys Jones, negro, but mule hoofprints. Loys went cotton stealing. He rode a mule up to a neighbor's cotton house. About 300 pounds of seed cotton was sacked and placed on the mule's back. Loys departed, secure in the belief that he was 300 pounds of cotton ahead.

But the neighbor saw him. Deputy Sheriff J. B. Middlebrooks was called. Unfortunately, just a few moments before the visit to the cotton house, a light rain had fallen. The mule's tracks showed plainly in the turf. With the aid of a flashlight the officer trailed the mule through two miles of wooded country and to Loys' door. The officer found the cotton in Loys' house. Loys now is in jail, charged with larceny.

Pastor Defends Women's Style of Dress and Congregation Is Disrupted

ST. JOE, Ark., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Rev. Curgus Jones defended feminine attire in a sermon at his church in the eastern part of this county, and a split in the congregation has been the result.

The Rev. Mr. Jones in defending the trend in female garb, declared sinless humanity in the Garden of Eden wore no clothes and that when the promised millenium came humanity will have returned to the condition of the Garden of Eden dwellers. The trend that way in feminine attire he regarded as most encouraging from a religious standpoint. Some of his congregation thought otherwise, and the split resulted.

Another chapter was written when one deacon, mindful of the approach of cold weather, circulated a subscription paper to raise funds to buy the pastor a new suit of clothes.

The discordant element caucused and joined in signed the following statement on the subscription paper:

"We decline to contribute as this might postpone the millinnium."

French Will Enjoy the Coming Winter

Plenty of Bread and Wine To Keep Nation In Good Spirits.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—(AP)—When winter comes, your Frenchman can button up his overcoat and go home smiling and content in the assurance that bread and wine are more plentiful than for many years. The sunny weather of 1929, following a dry and icy winter, has produced for him an abundance of both grain and grapes.

Your average Frenchman, as your average anybody else, cannot live by bread alone. But give him some wine to go with it, and he can make out. A jug of wine and a loaf of bread are as dear to his heart as they were to Omar, the poetic Persian. As for the book of verse and the tantalizing "Thou" and her song, Gallic tolerance leaves every man to his own taste.

The wheat crop is estimated at 318,000,000 bushels, an eighth more than last year, and more than enough for every breadbasket between the Riviera and the Channel, from the Vosges to the Pyrenees.

If one likes wine, then one would be wise to make a mental note that, upon coming to France some fated day, "1929" will be a good year to have upon the bottle. And it doesn't make much difference what kind of French wine is in the bottle.

All over France, in every vineyard, peasants and buyers tell the same story: 1929 will be a great year for both quality and quantity. In Alsace, whence come dry and golden wines and silvery high-powdered liqueurs; in Touraines where Anjou and Vouvray and many another wine is produced; along the highroad from Dijon to Macon, where the names of the towns and the Chateaux are carried around the world on labels of bottles of rich and warming burgundies, the news was always the same.

"No, it is true we have not yet plucked and pressed the grapes, but we don't have to wait for that, Monsieur, to be sure its a great year. After such weather, there is no doubt of it."

In the Rhone and Saone valleys, along the hillsides and sheltered vineyards of Provence, and further west where red and white wines of Bordeaux are poured into millions of bottles and barrels, the toiling peasants and gesticulating merchants agreed that it has been many a year since the grapes were so good and so plentiful.

By the end of summer, prices of old wines began to fall, for warehouses and cellars had to find room for the new crop.

The folks least elated are the peasants who own and cultivate the vines. When it was known the crop would be a bumper one, prices, spot and futures, declined. But the tax that the peasant owes on every barrel he sells, is fixed solely on quantity.

But while the peasant grumbles, the middle-classes, who have a theory that a bottle a day will keep the doctor away, are smacking their lips.

Rail Telegrams Give Weather Date To Fliers

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Reporting the weather for airmen is the newest job of the railroad telegrapher.

The Pennsylvania railroad has assigned to its telegraphers along the route of the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., the task of supplying fliers the latest information on atmospheric conditions. They are specially schooled to read thermometers, barometers and other weather indicating instruments.

A Mile In 10 Seconds

LIEUTENANT ALFORD WILLIAMS, the U. S. navy's crack speed flyer, has a new seaplane of unique design in which he is going to try to break the world speed record set at the international speed races in England in September.

It is reported that he will try to reach a speed of 400 miles per hour in his tiny plane, nearly all of which is motor and which looks a lot like an overgrown mosquito.

The little ship is said to be the fastest airplane ever built. It is of 110 horsepower and weighs only four pounds to the horsepower, a ration never before achieved. It has a 24-cylinder motor with 48 sparkplugs, four carburetors and four distributors. The wings are so tiny in proportion to the motor that if the engine stopped the ship would fall like a plummet, as it could not glide. In other words, it has to go through the air like a bullet, mostly on its momentum.

It has a minimum speed of 100 miles per hour, meaning that Lieutenant Williams must land and take off at a speed greater than the maximum of most planes. This makes landing on the water especially dangerous, because of a pontoon struck even a small piece of driftwood at this terrific speed there might be a disaster.

We fail to see where very much is going to be accomplished for aviation by a stunt like this, but we can't help but admire Lieutenant Williams for his courage and the tremendous risk he will assume in making the attempt. If he succeeds in breaking the record in this frail, bullet-like plane on which the experts have laborod so long, it will be not because of the machine, but because there was a man who was daring enough to fly it.

We wish him well; we hope he makes it. It's going to be a thrilling attempt and his bravery should be rewarded with success.

But, after all, it will be only a stunt and— succeed or fail—of slight value to sane, sound, common-sense, business-like commercial aviation.

A Memorial To Gorgas

THERE are memorials and memorials. Some men get statues with their names carved on them—and those are fine memorials. But other men, who don't get statues, sometimes get something better; living institutions that stand as ever-present testimonials to their wisdom, heroism and knowledge.

That thought is provoked by an article in the current issue of the Red Cross Courier discussing the late William Crawford Gorgas, the famous army surgeon and health expert. It points out that Gorgas will never lack for a moment as long as the Panama canal continues in operation. And, when you stop to think about it, what finer memorial could a man want?

What Gorgas did is worth reviewing. Too often we give fame and wealth to men whose services are highly insubstantial. Gorgas was a genuine benefactor of the race, and his work should be familiar to everyone.

After the Spanish-American war, during which he served as a major in the medical corps, Gorgas was sent to Havana as chief sanitary officer. By 1902 his studies of yellow fever and his fight against it had practically rid the Cuban capital of that dreaded scourge. His work was so spectacular that he was promoted and, in 1904, sent to the Panama Canal Zone as chief health officer.

Yellow fever had prevented the French from completing their canal there. It was estimated that at least 4 per cent of the workers must die of this disease annually. Considering the size of the industrial army that Uncle Sam mobilized there this would have meant an annual death list of around 1400. So Gorgas, who had discovered at Havana that yellow fever is carried by the mosquito, got busy.

So well and so thoroughly did he work that a scant year afted his arrival Gorgas was offering $50 to any person not a member of the health department notifying him of a case of yellow fever in the canal zone. And there is no record that that offer was ever claimed. Georgas' triumph was complete.

So the canal was built; and it stands today as a great monument to the medical genius who made it possible. It ensures his fame forever.

Fall "Duds"!

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Franklin Adams, veteran counselor of the Pan-American Union, who spends most of his life bringing the Americans and the Latin-Americans closer together, reports a great deal of progress for the movement. Mr. Adams claims no great share of the credit; the trend appears to be inevitable.

"The future calls for close relationships," says he. "We are beginning to build these relationships rapidly—commercially, socially and culturally.

"In tow years $726,000,000 of our money has been loaned to governments, states and municipalities in Latin America. Everyone owns these bonds. They are no longer the property of a few large financiers. And that is only the beginning. The good roads programs below the Rio Grande are only in their infancy and they call for thousands of new American bondholders.

Increasing Our Interest

"We are getting to be stockholders in those countries. When our money goes down there out interest in the countries and peoples themselves is bound to follow.

"Study of the Spanish language becomes more popular in the United States every year. In the New York public schools alone 28,000 pupils are studing it. We are being brought together by all the methods of communication and transportation. Steamship service has been supplemented by airways and the time will come when motorists will tour into South America.

"By next spring there will be an improved highway all the way to Mexico City and Mexico will be opened up to automobile tourists. Motor cars will come back loaded with artistic souvenirs, little bits of Mexico. Latin customs will become familiar to millions of Americans, many of whom will pick up part of the Spanish language.

"Next year it will also be possible to motor down into Central America.

"The market of women's fashions has become filled with the Spanish motif in the wake of the Barcelona exposition. Spanish costumes and customs are rich in inspiration and the world's most famous couturiers who exhibited at Barcelona have brought a great deal away. The influence in autumn styles is reported in the style centers everywhere. Fandango jewelry and Barcelona jewelry are being worn with Spanish scarfs and 'Spanish colors' and silhouettes are the mode.

"Spain and Latin America have a common culture as well as a common language. We are exchanging artists with one as with the other. While La Argentina the dancer from Buenos Aires, is touring the United States, our own Clarita Martin, the wife of a Chicago lawyer, has been reaping the highest critical praise with her Spanish dances in the cities of Spain. And Sdney Franklin, the bull fighter from Brooklyn, is all the rage in the Spanish arenas.

"Spanish dances will be popular in this country as long as American women try to keep their weight down. Those dances use every muscle. The Greeks, the Phoenecians, the Romans and the Moors have all contributed to them and they call for such a complete play of the body that their popularity among women is being enhanced by the reduction fad.

"Our army band went over to the Seville Exposition and came back with a big repertoire of Spanish music which will be heard by Americans from now on. The Pan-American concerts have introduced Latin-American music to everyone who has a radio. Our private orchestras are picking up the Spanish vogue and we are dancing both the Spanish and Argentine tangoes."

"THE IDLE RICH" CAST HAS HAD FEW EQUALS

What might be considered one of the most experienced casts in dialogue films ever assembled was called together by William de Mille to make "The Ide Rich," his all-talking picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which opens at the Saenger theatre Friday.

Conrad Nagel, a veteran in the "talkies," plays the leading role. Bessie Love, of "Brodway Melody" fame, and Leila Hyams, who scored in the all-talking version of "Alias Jimmy Valentine," have the leading feminine parts. The supporting players, Robert Ober, James Meill, Edythe Chapman, Paul Kruger and Kenneth Gibson are all troupers of both stage and screen.

AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL—POOR GIRL," ETC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Helen Page feels hopelessly in love with her guardian, Leonard Brent. A chance meeting with a dying beggar, Charles Nellin, causes Brent to change his plans for Helen's future. Soon after he tells her that she is the only grandchild of a millionaire, Cyril K. Cunningham, Brent takes her to Cunningham and offers proofs which the lonely old man accepts. Hoping to make up for the injustice done her mother, Cunningham showers the girl with affection and gifts.

Among Helen's new friends are Eva Ennis and her brother Robbert, who falls in love with her. Brent finds another locket like the one he had taken from Nellin to prove Helen as the heiress. He also becomes jealous of Bob and plots to secure Helen for himself quickly. Hearing the doctor say that a sudden shock would kill the old man, Brent gets the servants out of the way and rushes into the sick room shouting wildly that Helen has been killed. His plan works and when the attendant returns, Cunningham is dead. Then Brent appears as friend and former guardian of Helen and takes charge of arrangements.

Brent tries to break off a love affair with Eva without arousing Helen's suspicions. Meanwhile, a chance meeting between Helen and Bob reveals their love for each other, but she tells him she has promised herself to another. Next day Helen goes to New York to ask Brent to release her and finds Carmel Segro there acting very much at home. When Brent returns, Carmel throws herself into his arms before he sees Helen. This makes it easier for Helen to demand that their engagement be broken, but Brent refuses to release her, saying that he had given up marriage earlier and devoted his life to her so that now she has no right to reject him as he has devoted his life to her, and that Carmel means nothing to him. When his arguments fail to hold her, Brent resolves on more drastic methods.

CHAPTER XXXIII

Shallimar Morris had come to visit Helen. Without a word of warning and with her luggage well packed with a killing wardrobe.

"But if you don't want me, old cauliflower, I'll dash along on my way to Canada. Would stop a moment with you, however, should you urge me."

She was laughing, and different. Her laughter was louder, but it tinkled musically. Helen puzzled over the change in her. She seemed restless, stirred, unhappy. There was pain in her eyes. Her dark beauty was somehow more brilliant yet somehow clouded.

"To marriage," was the cryptic toast she offered when refreshments were brought.

Helen's silence repeated the word with unmistakable inquiry.

"This is his wedding day," Shallimar went on, and drained her glass.

"Let's go up to my room and you can tell me about it," Helen said, sensing a confidence. To listen to another's story might make her own seem a little less important, she thought. For it had appeared to her that nothing in the world mattered but her love for Bob Ennis.

Shallimar motioned to the tray. "Have it sent up, too," she requested and Helen nodded in assent.

A minute or two later they had made themselves comfortable in Helen's room and Shallimar plunged into her story without preliminaries.

"I fell in love," she confessed, "with an engaged man. He wouldn't break it off, and today he's saying 'I will' to a lot of nonsense he probably isn't even listening to. Not that it makes any difference—I mean about his being married now—but I can't forgive him for not refusing to give it up. He said if I was any kind of Diana I could get my man against odds. We quarreled about it—and, here I am!"

"And here you'll stay," Helen told her abruptly. Then, her voice softening with a note of sympathy: "I'm glad you came, Shallie, darling, I've been awfully lonesome for some of the girls."

"But you never invited me," Shallimar complained.

"My grandfather was ill," Helen explained, "and . . ."

"Never mind," Shallimar broke in. "Are there any men about?"

"I'm afraid you won't stay," Helen laughed.

"At least until morning," Shallimar promised.

But by morning she had decided to postpone her stay indefinitely. Any man was game for her now. She was going to be reckless, ruthless and revengeful where the male of the species was concerned. And she had not met Bob Ennis.

Helen had telephoned Eva and invited her to dinner to meet Shallimar, knowing that her guest would prefer company and a later hour for intimate talk.

They'd had an interesting 45 minutes at table—Shallimar simply wouldn't remain there any longer—with the restless guest feeding her hostess tidbits of gossip about school friends in return for a delicious dinner.

Eva was fascinated with her, a fascination in which Shallimar took keen delight. She saw that her scornful remarks anent men were received by the younger girl with great respect. "Some fella has tried a masculine trick or two on her and she's snowed under," Shallimar decided the while she smiled and curled her fine red lips contemptuously.

Helen felt impelled to remark that she didn't believe Shallimar was so bitter as she sounded.

"My dear, I love men," Shallimar answered with flippant ease; "but I think they ought to suffer for the good of their souls."

"Oh," Eva said softly, and envied Shallimar less. Her hate seemed so of the surface. And in her own heart Eva felt that hate should be respected as a cardinal emotion. It was not a thing to be taken lightly.

As the evening wore on she grew exceedingly pensive and when Helen asked her to play and sing for them—she had a charming voice—and Shallimar insisted upon jazz, she refused, rather inpatiently. Shallimar thought.

"I will not be made to cry," Shallimar objected when Helen urged Eva to choose her selections to please herself. "If I heard one note that sounded as if it belonged in a Wedding March I'd howl like a calf."

"Or bellow like a wolf, I suppose," Helen teased.

"Just the same . . ." Shallimar said, and seated herself at the piano, leaving her sentence unfinished.

A ripple of the keys—Eva caught by her technique, on the verge of being intrigued, when Helen whispered in her ear.

"Where is Bob?" she asked swiftly.

"I wish I knew," Eva answered. "He's been like a crazy man today, Helen. Whatever did you do to him last night?"

"Is he miserable?" Helen pressed with a touch of exultation that provoked Eva a bit—until she saw that it was followed by tender concern and was in no way inspired by disregard of her brother's feelings.

"Thoroughly," she replied.

"He ought to be," Helen amazed her by saying. "He called me a rotter, Eva. Think of it!"

Eva's eyes opened wide, but Helen's smile reassured her. "You don't seem to mind very much," she remarked.

"I don't," Helen admitted. "I think there's just enough of the cave man in Bob to make him rough with the woman he loves when he thinks she's making a fool of herself. And what a fool I was!"

"Tell me about it," Eva pleaded.

"Not now," Helen demurred, noting that Shallimar was looking at them in a curious way. "I want you to do something for me" she went on hurriedly. "Call up your house and if Bob it there ask him to come over."

"He won't, if you quarreled."

"Tell him I need him. Tell him—wait a minute—tell him to come and take you home. But you must get him inside when he gets here."

"All right," Eva agreed.

Helen got up and went over to stand beside the piano and hum with Shallimar's music.

"Happy?" the latter asked, with the curious look of her eyes in her voice now. She was wondering who Eva Ennis might be. Helen broke softly into song.

"Lucky you," Shallimar envied aloud. "All the girls are saying I Knew Her When, Helen."

"Let them. I shall invite them all to my wedding, when I've told the groom that he must be there."

During this Eva slipped away to the telephone in the library. Helen saw at once on her return that she had failed. "Not home," she said with a shake of her head.

Helen was instantly dejected, but she consoled herself with the thought that she would surely see him on the morrow. Eva must bring him.

Eva did not stay long after that. Helen had her car brought round to take Eva home and, while she rather hoped Shallimar would decline, invited her to go along.

Should an opportunity to see Bob arise she much preferred to trust Eva's understanding and sympathy.

Shallimar would, intentionally, or otherwise, interefere Helen feared.

The darkly beautiful girl chose to interfere intentionally. Bob was just arriving home when Helen drove her car up to the curb and pressed the brake pedal for a smooth stop. As Bob's figure loomed up in the moonlight she felt a wild desire to call to him: "Bob, I love you! I love you!"

"Hello," she said, so quietly she was amazed at herself.

"Ah, a man a tall man and young I vow," Shallimar said. Helen caught the words but they held no sinister significance for her at the time. She did not know how deep lay the hurt in Shallimar's heart as well as in her eyes and that she was, for the present, viciously serious in spite of her mocking words and carefree manner.

"Oh, Bob!" Eva called and he was compelled to stop, although he had already hurriedly turned away to enter the house, hoping to escape unobserved and seek his room before the girls got in.

Reluctantly he turned back, and tried to greet Helen as casually as she had greeted him. But his voice was raspy and the words jerked out discordantly.

"A savage," Shallimar characterized him to herself. "All the better, if only he's as good looking in a better light as he appears now."

A little later, a minute or two, she saw that he was all, in appearance to least, that she hoped he would be. Eva had turned on a subdued light in a table lamp, but Bob, governed by a longing to get a good look at Helen, who was standing in a shadow, snapped on a bright overhead light and flooded the room with brilliancy.

Then his sister turned to introduce him to Shallimar and he had to tear his eyes away from the girl whose image had filled his heart with longing through many sleepless nights.

Shallimar decided at once to captivate him. Her smile as she flashed it for his approval from her white teeth and slumberous eyes—with their tantalizing suggestion of hidden fires—was dazzling.

Bob's reaction to it was the normal one of the average male. Or rather of the male already deeply enamored of another woman. He thought Shallimar stunning, without feeling at all personal toward her. But the admiration she stirred in him did not pass unnoticed by Helen.

A tiny fire of jealous was instantly kindled. But of course, all men would admire Shallimar—or any attractive girl—she told herself fiercely. It was to be expected.

The thought brought to her mind a picture of Leonard Brent smilling at her over the luncheon table amused by her immature views of life. "All men aren't alike," she denied to the memory of his worldly declarations.

"What do you do, work?" Shallimar was saying to Bob.

"Day and night," he answered.

Shallimar accepted the remark as a challenge, and Helen, looking at her wondered if all women scorned really were dangerous. Shallimar's next words were in the affirmative.

GASOLINE LORECO MOTOR OIL

GOOD GASOLINE!

In a chorus of super this and super that "good gasoline" sounds like a whisper.

But behind what Loreco says are some well selected oil fields—spouting a superior petroleum. Loreco plants are refining a gasoline already rich in a natural supply of some of this "super" without additions.

Plain Loreco gasoline makes a better controlled explosion and does a cleaner job in the cylinder than many fuels.

But we just say "good gasoline."

Of equal quality are Loreco Ethyl Gasoline and Loreco Motor Oils.

Born In Stage Coach, Lives To See Desert Go

FRESNO, Cal., Oct. 10.—Alfred J. Jacoby was born in an abandoned stage coach station on the dry plains of the San Joaquin Valley at a spot that since has become the central part of Fresno's business district.

That was in 1857, nearly 15 years before Fresno had its first house and when nearly all Fresno county's 120-mile stretch of valley land was considered desert.

Jacoby, a retired engineer and steam fitter, still lives here. He is one in a city of about 85,000 inhabitants, the center of some 187,000 acres of vineyard land and almost 500,600 acres of irrigated land.

Famous Old Council Bluffs Hotel Soon Under Auctioneer's Hammer

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Oct. 10.—Quitely dreaming of days of turmoil, half a century ago; of the hurrying feet of pioneers which trod its black walnut stairways; of the days when a king, world travelers, cattle kings, and notables from the political nabobs of the day to the "boss gamblers" slept in its beds and bought their drinks across its gleaming mahogany; the Union Pacific Transfer Hotel here soon will be but a memory.

Closed these last two years, soon its beds, its mirrows, before which demure lasses of the day arranged their coiffures; its furniture; its marble-topped washstands; its imported rugs will be sold at the fall of the auctioneer's gavel.

Built In 1877

Built in 1877 as a result of President Lincoln's earlier proclamation making Council Bluffs the eastern terminus of the Union Pacific railroad, the 'Transfer House' as it was known throughout the West was for years the most thriving hotel west of Chicago. In the old days it was a transfer point for all travelers going east or west. They were housed in the hotel, located upstairs of the transfer station. All, that is, save immigrants who were placed in the "immigrant house," a frame structure nearby.

Officially, the Union Pacific Transfer hotel passed out of existence at midnight, November 30, 1927. Lack of business and the growth of modern hostelries forced its closing. And now its furnishings are to be "knocked down" to the highest bidder.

But in its heyday, the Transfer House was one of the showplaces of the west.

Entering it, the visitors ascended to its foyer by a broad, winding stairway of black walnut, the finest wood obtainable. Upstairs were 9 rooms furnished in the height of Victorian luxury. Marble washstands carved black mahogany beds with bedsteads eight feet high; imported curtains and rugs were in every room.

In each room also was a knotted rope ire escape, and colored flasks filled with chemicals to be used in case of fire. The flasks, many of them still filled with the liquids, are yet on the walls.

In the main rall, 207 feet long and 15 feet wide, under the frescoed ceiling 16 feet above, stood a 1200 pound grand piano.

The piano is one of the few furnisheds which will not be sold. Along with some of the other furniture typical of that day it will be retained in the Union Pacific museum in Omaha.

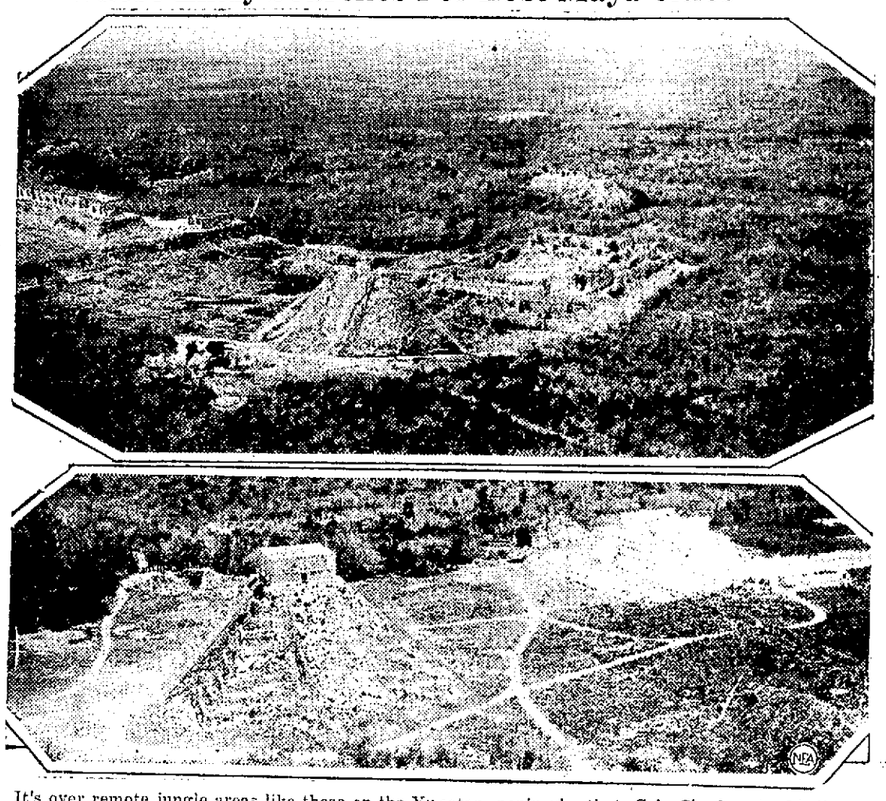

Andrew McMillian, son of the first master of the east-west transfer, vividly recalled the days of the hotel's glory.

"I remember well what a show place it was," McMillian said. "King Kalakua of the Sandwich Islands was a guest there in 1887, and twice later, George Francis Train, the man who circled the globe in 80 days stopped there in 1880. Nellie Bly, colorful reporter and globe-trotter was another who stayed there. And there were busts of others—cattle kings from the western ranges; gamblers, cowmen, political notables; military officers; artists and musicians crossing the country."

But no more. Its dwindling clientele of late has been confined to an occasional salesman; a tourist party; an old timer coming back to see how the "Transfer House" has fared through the years.

And soon even these will be gone. And the only guests will be the sombre shadows, remembering another and a brighter day.

Where Lindy Searches For Lost Maya Cities

It's over remote jungle areas like these on the Yucatan peninsula that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is conducting his aerial exploration in quest of lost cities of the ancient Maya Indians, whose remarkable civilization flourished 2000 years ago. Pictured at the top are an old temple and columned walls at Uxamal, previously discovered by land explorers. Beow, at the left, is the "Temple of the Cerpent" excavated by the Mexican government, and at the right the "Temple of the Warriors," a Carnegi Institution excavation.

Ishbel Hailed by Girl Scouts

She proved herself a good scout, did Ishbel MacDonald, on her visit to Washington. Here you see the bonny daughter of Great Britain's visiting Premier, Ramsey MacDonald, in the center of a group of Girl Scouts who called at the White House to greet her. At the right is Mrs. Herbert Hoover in a uniform as honorary president of the Girl Scouts of America and at the left is Mrs. Gerrit S. Miller, Girl Scout Commissioner for the District of Columbia.
